The Pink Thread™ Project:
Lands’ End Partners with the Breast Cancer Research Foundation® (BCRF)
to Raise Awareness and Funds

DODGEVILLE, Wis., (October 2, 2017) - Lands’ End is raising awareness and funding for the Breast Cancer Research Foundation through the annual Pink Thread Project. The campaign is in its fourth year and was created to further support the organization’s mission to be the end of breast cancer by advancing the world’s most promising research.

"The Pink Thread Project has truly been the common bond that ties together our commitment to support breast cancer research," said Becky Gebhardt, executive vice president and chief marketing officer, Lands’ End. “We are proud to partner with the Breast Cancer Research Foundation for a fourth year to once again demonstrate that a little pink truly does a lot of good, and together with our customers we look forward to helping make a difference.”

The Pink Thread Project is a simple, beautiful way to raise funds for breast cancer research by adding any monogram or embroidered icon using pink thread to Lands’ End apparel, accessories or home merchandise ranging from totes and towels to cardigans and shirts. Now through October 31, Lands’ End is donating 75 percent ($4.50 of the $6.00) of the fee for every Pink Thread monogram and embroidery application to the Breast Cancer Research Foundation, with a minimum total donation from Lands’ End to BCRF of $50,000.

“By supporting the highest rated breast cancer organization in the U.S., Lands’ End is propelling research forward, faster,” said Myra Biblowit, BCRF President & CEO. “Support from Lands’ End will fund scientists, fuel breakthroughs and, one day, help eradicate breast cancer.”

Additional Lands’ End Pink Thread Project Initiatives
